It was way past midnight, nearing dawn, and she was still typing away. The keyboard and the clock were the only sounds in the room, as far as she could tell. She had something tomorrow, but it didn't matter.

Tick Tock. Tick Tack. Tick Tock.

She looked at the clock and decided, at this point, staying up was the better option. The nerves kept her up, anyway. She saved the file and stared at what was written... Birds chirped from above, and the sunlight streamed into the opening through the trees. The sun was warm, but the air was cold.

The words swam, and she felt a tug.

Birds chirped from above, and the sunlight streamed into the opening through the trees. The sun was warm. but the air was cold.
